DAY 1 WORKSHEET — THE AI STRATEGIST MINDSET

Map the Claude ecosystem, then ship your first client-grade deliverable: a polished one-page content brief built from messy notes.

NAME: _____ DATE: _____

01 KNOW THE MAP

Write the job of each tool in your own words — one line each. If you can explain it, you own it.

Chat:

Projects:

Artifacts:

Skills:

Cowork:

Connectors:

02 MATCH THE TOOL TO THE JOB

Which tool would you reach for? Write one of: Chat, Projects, Artifacts, Skills, Cowork, Connectors.

You're tired of re-explaining the same client's brand voice every single time.

You want the deliverable as a clean, editable document you can send.

You want Claude to read your actual inbox instead of pasted copies.

You want a whole folder of receipts turned into an expense summary while you supervise.

You want a task done YOUR way, the same way, every time.

03 THE BUILD — MESSY NOTES TO CLIENT BRIEF

Do the Day 1 build in Claude, then record it here.

The opening line you gave Claude (role + audience):

The sections you asked for in the brief (format):

The one refinement you asked for — and what changed:

- [ ] I pasted the messy notes without cleaning them first — that's Claude's job.
- [ ] The brief opened as an Artifact (a deliverable, not a chat).
- [ ] I created a Project called "My First Client" and saved the brief into it.
- [ ] I reviewed the output like a strategist before calling it done.

04 LOCK IT IN

Twenty minutes ago vs now: what's one thing you believed about AI that changed tonight?

One task from your real work you'll hand to Claude this week:

COACH'S NOTE — Attach or paste your finished content brief when you upload this worksheet — the brief IS the win.